Foreword and Theme

In spite of the seemingly almost insurmountable obstacles for the publication of a yearbook, due to the drastic reduction of students, funds and labor this year, the students of Oglethorpe were determined to have a Yamacraw. The contents of these pages represent the untiring efforts and the personal sacrifice of the 1943 Yamacraw staff. This book represents an effort to capture for posterity the events on the Oglethorpe campus in these chaotic and historic times.

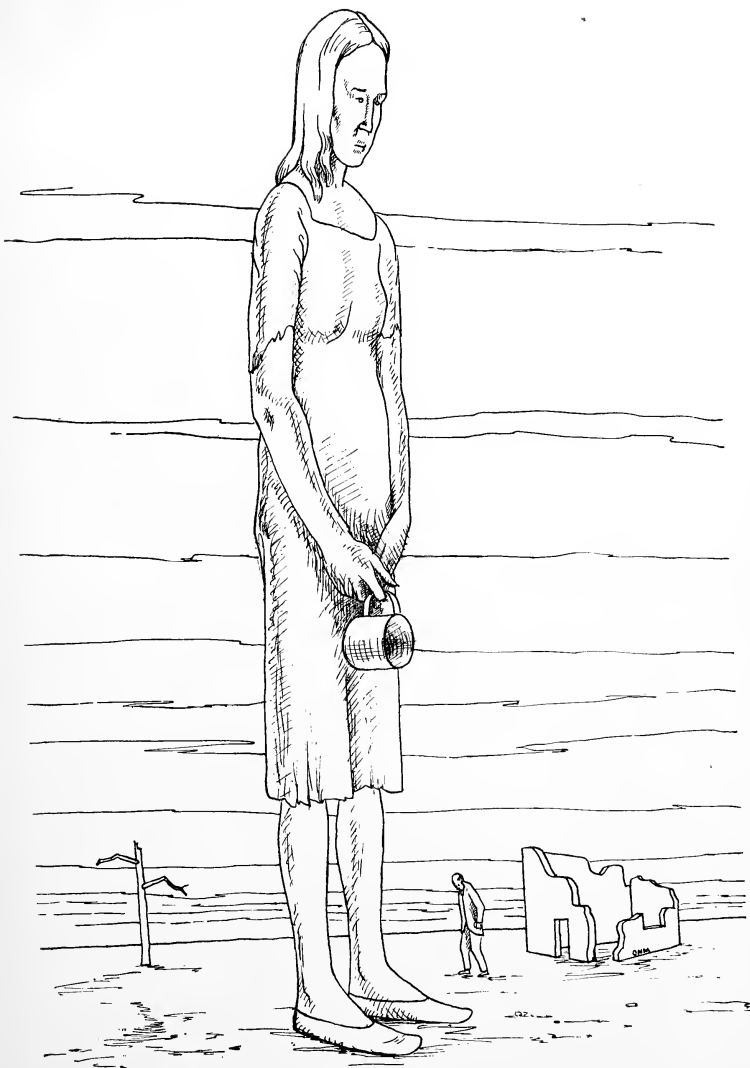

George North Morris, Dean of the School of Fine Arts produced the following drawings of the Four Freedoms embodying the theme of our Yearbook:

DR. GEORGE FREDERICK NICOLASSEN

VERSAILLES

1919

By Thornwell Jacobs

We dreamed of peace made sure by mighty power;
Of paths made safe for fair Democracy;
Of how, at length, had struck the fatal hour
When wars would end and all mankind be free;
And lo, Versailles!

The blood of men in rivers drenched all lands;
The gold of men as waters poured we forth;
We shook the thrones of kaisers with strong hands;
And gathered at the end to gain its worth;
And lo, Versailles!

We summoned all our greatest, all our wise;
A year we talked and wrote big books of words;
The while the world we cherished slowly dies,
And famine stalks its helpless human herds;
And lo, Versailles!

We said our enemies must have their part
In open counsel, freed of tyrant's heel;
That we could change a mighty nation's heart;
That they with us to liberty must kneel;
And lo, Versailles!

We used such mighty words: of love wide-spoken,
Of brotherhood, of little nation's rights,
Of how the sword forever would be broken
That earth might know her last of anger's blights!
And lo, Versailles!

A peace of hatred, and a contract signed
Again to let the blood of nations, this!
When all we needed was a hand to blind
Revenge, a heart to pray for enemies!
And lo, Versailles!

History of Oglethorpe

The historical genesis of Oglethorpe University takes us back to the middle of the eighteenth century when, under the leadership of Presbyterian men, Princeton College was founded in New Jersey and rapidly became the institution largely patronized by the young men from Presbyterian families all over the world. After a while the long distance which must be traveled by stage or horseback, suggested the building of a similar institution under the auspices of Presbyterianism in the South. The movement began with the spring meeting of Hopewell Presbytery in the year 1823, and eventuated in the founding of a manual training school, and this in turn, became Oglethorpe College in 1835 when Midway Hill, in the suburbs of Milledgeville, then the capital of the state of Georgia, was chosen for the location of the institution. Old Oglethorpe College was thus the first denominational college or university between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans south of the Virginia line, and, of a right, claimed to be the Alma Mater of all that brilliant company of institutions which were born after her in this vast empire.

The facilities of the old Oglethorpe were adequate for the time. The main building was probably the handsomest college structure in the Southeast when it was erected, and "contained the finest college chapel in the United States not excepting Yale, Harvard or Princeton."

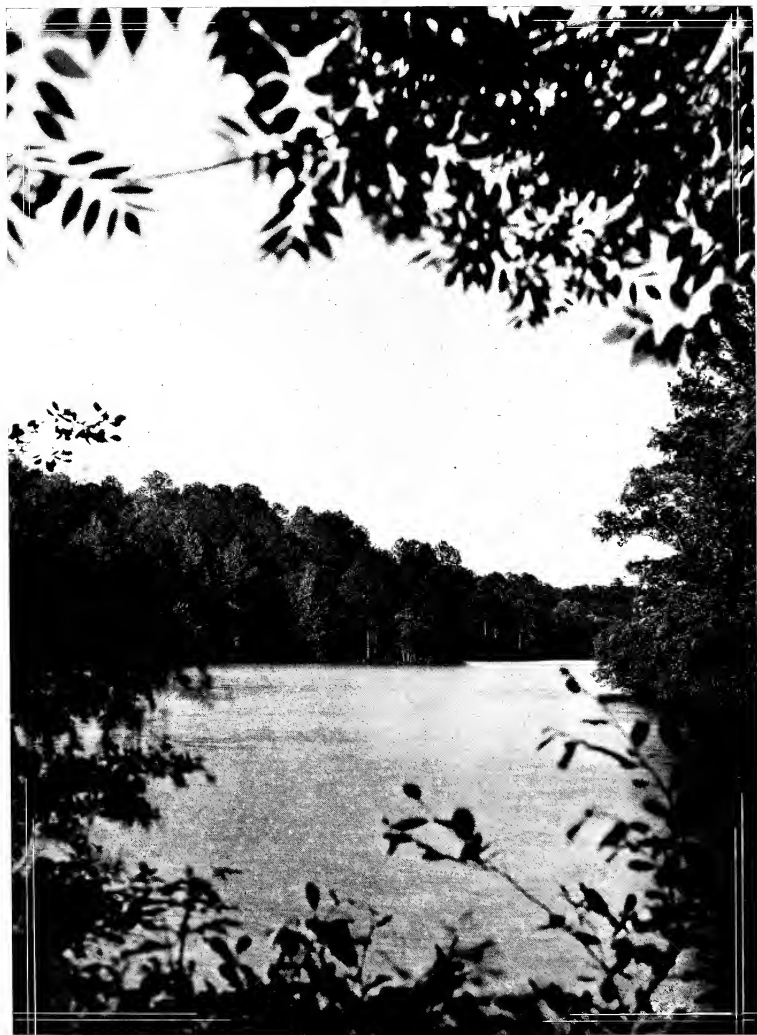

In the faculty of the institution may be found the names of men who were world famous. Among these were Joseph LeConte, the great geologist; James Woodrow, the brilliant and devoted Christian and scientist; Samuel K. Talmadge, the eminent administrator and many others. It is, perhaps, the chief glory of old Oglethorpe that after three years of instruction she graduated

Sidney Lanier of the famous class of 1860 and that he was a tutor to her sons until the spring of '61 when, with the Oglethorpe cadets he marched away to the wars. Shortly before his death, Lanier, looking back over his career, remarked to a friend that the greatest intellectual impulse of his life had come to him during his college days at Oglethorpe through the influence of Dr. Woodrow. Her other eminent alumni include governors, justices, moderators of the General Assembly, discoverers, inventors and a host of honest, industrious and superb laborers for the highest ideals of humanity.

Oglethorpe "died at Gettysburg," for during the war her sons were soldiers, her endowment was invested in Confederate bonds, and her buildings which were used for barracks and hospitals, were later destroyed. An effort was made to revive the institution in the 70's and to locate it in Atlanta, but the evils of reconstruction days and financial disaster made the adventure impossible, and after a year and a half of struggle the doors were closed for the second time.

Only thirty years have passed since the present movement to re-found the university began and they have been years of financial disaster and utter turmoil, yet the assets and subscription pledges of the institution have approached the sum of a million dollars as the result of unusual and self-sacrificing liberality on the part of over five hundred people.

The cornerstone of Oglethorpe University was laid on January 21, 1915, with her trustful motto engraved upon it: "Manu Dei Resurrexit" (By the Hand of God She Has Risen From the Dead.)

Lake Phoebe

Within a troubled world there lies
A place where honor never dies,
A spot where peace can still be found
With praises always upward bound.

Here rippling waters slowly flow
And murmuring winds softly blow,
Forming with whisp'ring trees a choir
To chant of nature's hidden Sire.

Inside thy heart the angels sing,
Within thy realm the ethers ring,
Above thy crown the heavens send
The Master's smile, all things to mend.

Oh sacred land of sacred sod
Ever singing the songs of God:
Why then when worldly men discern,
Why canst the world thy lesson learn?

Founded at the Citadel in Charleston, South Carolina, on December 10, 1904, and at its ninth annual conference in 1916 the charter was granted for the Pi chapter at Oglethorpe.

Although many of its members are serving in the armed forces, the fraternity with its limited membership achieved an enviable position on the campus this year.

It achieved the highest scholastic average of all fraternities and sororities combined. Its members served in high positions on all the campus organizations and many honors were bestowed on its members through personal achievement.

War Casualty

Although the 1943 Baseball team was organized only in the Spring expecting a successful season, Uncle Sam rather abruptly, but not unexpectedly, called ten of the veterans to the colors.

With only a skeleton squad, Coach Frank Anderson realized the futility of attempting to actively engage in baseball at this time. It is with regret but with a feeling that our privation will mean a hastening of victory that we announce the suspension of competitive sports at Oglethorpe for the duration.

Coach Frank Anderson

We Prophecy

Piercing a sky of fleecy, rolling clouds in seas of blue, a modern rocket ship sails rapidly toward the landing field and then onto the shiny runway. Our ship must pause to refuel in the metropolis of Atlanta before continuing to Washington.

The passengers slowly walk toward the waiting rooms of the airport. What? Could it be? But, of course! It's none other than our old friend, Senator Jimmy Vocalis. And who's that he's so enthusiastically greeting? Why, it's none other than Bob Dillard! Let's listen in

"Jimmy Vocalis, as I live and breath! Gosh, it's swell to see you after all these years!" "What in the world have you done with yourself since that Sunday morning on a balmy May day?"

"Bob, I thought all the old gang knew that after I spent a few years in accounting, I was elected Mayor of Atlanta to clean-up that local scandal."

"May, you sure did a bang-up job, Jimmy!"

"Thanks, Bob. You see, soon afterwards, I ran for Governor and after my four years was elected senator from Georgia. So here I am. But, Bob, don't be too modest. You've done all right for yourself."

"Now, now, Jimmy."

"Why only last week I read the remarkable story about your detailed research on the virus germ. Gee, it must have been wonderful after all that work to discover the source of so much contagion! I also understand you have perfected a definite cure for this malady."

"Yes, that's true, Jimmy."

"You know, Bob, I could almost have forecast your success as a great scientist twenty years ago at old Oglethorpe."

"Mentioning Oglethorpe, Jimmy, brings to my mind many fond memories. You will be interested to know that Max "Red" Ivey is now a physician in Chicago enjoying a successful practice. Last month he performed my appendicitis operation. That's why I'm here. You see, I'm on my way to Florida to recuperate and, at the same time, begin new experiments to determine the cause of the great citrus fruit destruction by an unknown insect."

"That's interesting, Bob. Excuse me a moment please. That confounded television set is too loud. I'll ask the proprietor to lower it."

(Over radio-television) Ladies and gentlemen. The Hollywood NBC Studios present the international famous song thrush, Miss Beatrice Nix, singing "When Meshach Goes Back to Old Ogie."

"Say! Did you hear that, Bob? You remember Bea don't you? Can you imagine that? She sings well too, after all these years. What's that you have on the table there, Bob?"

"It's the best-seller of the year, Jimmy, written by Dot Greene, Petrel editor when we were seniors. The title? Oh, yes. "Going, Going, Gone!" It's about the collapse of the old South of 25 years ago!"

"By the way, Bob, did you know that little Nub Floyd is now a broker. Only last week he was in Washington to see me about the rapid rise in commodity prices. As soon as I return to Washington I shall institute legislation to attempt to remedy this situation."

"Guess who is pictured on this month's cover of Vogue and Mademoiselle? None other than glamorous Claudie Johnson who was Miss Oglethorpe University back 20 years ago. Let's see. Yes,, here's a copy of Vogue. Gee, she's still as beautiful as she was then; her success as a model has been phenomenal!"

"Jimmy, did you see the World Series last month? Fred Vihlen made a sensational catch of that ninth inning long fly which would have copped the game for the Browns. He was voted Player of the Year. Fred's working with Max Gaston who's now manager of the Champions. I always felt Max had executive ability."

"Bob, you remember that George Liptak drove the Greyhound busses in spare time? Well, now he's president of the Zoom Boom Whizzes-Transport Company. Only last month I received my dividends on the stock I own in the company."

"So George is still running busse, eh? Did you know that Goldthwait and Meacham are professors at Harvard now? When I attended a meeting of the Scientists of America there about two months ago I met both Johns. Both have written numerous books in the last ten years. Goldthwaits' "Fundamentals of English" is especially interesting. You must read it!"

"That reminds me, Bob. Of course, you remember Hilliard Steele and I took accounting together. Well, Hilliard continued this work and now is a tax expert and economist in Washington. I must see him about that new income tax bill we're preparing for Congress."

"Another Petrel in Washington and an officer in the War Department is Ray Taylor . . . Colonel Ray Taylor in fact. He's now head of the Administrative Division of the Engineers. The colonel remained in military service after the Global War and now he's very influential in Army circles." "Well, Bob, I sure hate to break this up but my rocket is about ready to fly. Let's listen for a moment."

(From loudspeakers) "Rocket Ship Zenith leaving from Ramp 19 in 3 minutes. Captain John H. Gasaway, pilot. Miss . . . "

"Say! Did you hear that, Jimmy? Old Horace is flying your ship to Washington. How well I remember his triumphant return home as our national hero after the last war. Let's walk out toward the rocket, Jimmy."

"Is my seat reserved, Miss?"

"Your name please, sir."

"Senator Vocalis of Georgia."

(Aside) "Bob, doesn't this young lady remind you of Mary Asher?"

"Sure thing, Jimmy."

"Pardon me, Miss, while I ask you a rather personal question. You recall pleasant memories to my friend here and me; you strongly resemble an old classmate of ours at Oglethorpe, Mary Asher."

"Why, of course, Senator, I'm Diana Asher. I was only a year old when my mother and you graduated from Oglethorpe. I finished there last summer and now I'm hostess on this rocket. I'm glad to have met you gentlemen. Sorry to rush you, but we must be on our way!"

"Well, Bob, bon voyage and do please drop me a card sometime. If you're ever in Washington drop by the Shoreham. This has been one of my happiest days in many, many years. So long!"

"Good bye, Jimmy, It's been swell!"

Like a bolt of lightning our rocket ship plunges into the blue horizon again separating our distinguished Oglethorpe classmates—perhaps for another 20 years or—perhaps—forever.

When The War Will End

Absolute knowledge I have none,
But my Aunt's washer woman's sister's son
Heard a policeman on his beat
Say to a laborer on the street
That he had a letter just last week,
Written in the finest Greek,
From a Chinese coolie in Timbuctoo,
Who said that the niggers in Cuba knew
Of a colored man in a Texas town,
Who got it straight from a circus clown,
That a man in Klondike heard the news
From a bunch of South American Jews,
About somebody in Borneo,
Who has a friend who claims to know
Of a swell society female fake,
Whose mother-in-law will undertake
To prove that her third husband's sister's neice
Had stated in a printed piece,
That she has a son, who has a friend,
Who claims to know when the war will end.

That Extra Something!
...You can spot it every time

LIKE "winning a letter", keeping out in front of the others takes an extra something. Coca-Cola has it,—in taste ... in quality ... in refreshment.

The finished art that comes from 57 years of practice goes into the making of Coca-Cola. A special blend of flavor-essences merges all the ingredients of Coca-Cola into a unique, original taste of its own.

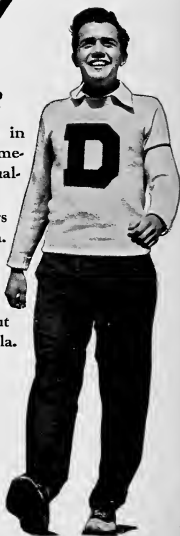

There are many ways to quench thirst, but only Coca-Cola refreshes like Coca-Cola.

The best is always the better buy!

ATLANTA COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing... the real thing ... "coming from a single source, and well known to the community".
